Our Mission

To enhance the quality of life and economic vitality for all Alabamians by providing access to and support for the state’s diverse and rich artistic resources.
The Alabama State Council on the Arts has been supporting and promoting the arts in Alabama for over a half century as the state’s official arts agency.

In 2019, the Council on the Arts played a leadership role in the celebration of Alabama’s Bicentennial and marked 200 years of statehood with three years of arts programming and the dedication of Alabama Bicentennial Park by Governor Kay Ivey. Bicentennial Park sits at the foot of the state Capitol on the north and south sides of historic Dexter Avenue and features sixteen bronze high relief sculptures by Tuscaloosa artist Caleb O’Connor. The Bicentennial allowed the Council to highlight the central role arts and culture play in our lives, how the arts have shaped our state over the decades, and how important strong support for the arts is for achieving all that we collectively aspire to become in the next century.

Bipartisan support and recognition of the importance of the arts is essential as we work to elevate Alabama’s standing nationally in relation to education, economic prosperity, and even health. Despite significant state investments, the arts remain underfunded, limiting the ability for Alabama artists and arts organizations to reach their full potential. Since our founding in 1967, the Alabama State Council on the Arts has endeavored to be responsible stewards of the state and federal funds that are entrusted to us to increase access to the arts and raise the quality of life for all our citizens.

Our society has evolved so much since the Council on the Arts was founded, at a seemingly increasing speed, as we become ever more connected to each other and the rest of the world through communication and travel. We too are evolving to meet the needs of arts organizations, artists, and communities throughout Alabama. This Blueprint document articulates the goals that guide our work moving forward and informs everything the agency does as we work to achieve our mission of enhancing the quality of life and economic vitality for all Alabamians by providing support for the state’s diverse and rich artistic resources.

This plan builds on what the Council has learned through many decades of experience serving arts organizations in Alabama. Two years of intensive research, discussion, and deliberation shaped the plan presented here. Surveys, focus groups, round-table discussions, listening to grantees and program participants, extensive staff and Council conversations, and reviewing best practices and innovative models nationally ultimately led to this Blueprint, which will guide the work of the Alabama State Council on the Arts from 2020–2025.
Support Excellence & Professionalism in the Arts

Encourage public and private sector leadership in supporting Alabama as a place of artistic excellence, opportunity, and growth.

Provide support to organizations that are performing exemplary work, displaying an ongoing commitment to quality, and achieving a high degree of professionalism both artistically and administratively.

Serve as a resource for best practices and innovations that will aid arts organizations in becoming more efficient, effective, and relevant.

Increase recognition of Alabama artists and arts organizations regionally, nationally, and internationally.

Support professional development for artists and arts organizations.

Encourage and support collaborative efforts that strengthen and share professional resources.

Through education on the impact and importance of the arts, help legislators and public officials understand the need for increased arts funding to ensure the positive social and economic benefits of the arts are realized statewide.
Provide opportunities for high quality arts education for every Alabama student and lifelong learner...

Build expectations for arts education to enhance economy, community, and quality of life.

Support both virtual and actual access and equity to quality arts learning for all students.

Advance arts education opportunities to facilitate college and career readiness.

Support, initiate and disseminate research that tracks the impact of arts education.

Encourage internship and apprenticeship opportunities that provide on-the-job training.

Provide scholarship opportunities for students pursuing college degrees and/or advanced training in the various professional fields of the arts.

Recognize excellence in arts education by showcasing and awarding innovative teachers and students.

Employ the arts as a catalyst to create and maintain an engaged school and community environment.

Provide opportunities for community partners, artists, and schools to collaborate on the planning and implementation of arts programs.

Support projects and programs that extend arts education beyond the traditional K-12 experience.

Provide personnel to lead and facilitate the operations of the Artistic Literacy Consortium.
The mission of the Artistic Literacy Consortium is to provide fully funded, high quality arts education that enlightens, inspires, and develops in every Alabama student the creative and innovative thinking necessary to ensure college and career readiness.

Advocate for all Alabamians to have access to arts programming and facilities.

Facilitate equitable access and inclusion for those who have limited access due to factors such as race, gender, geography, cultural and language barriers, economic conditions, physical or cognitive abilities, or age.

Guide organizations to awareness of and compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Support the creation of arts spaces and venues where the arts can be enjoyed by all Alabamians.

Provide leadership to expand the diversity of artists, audiences, staff, and board members.

Increase access to funding opportunities for all organizations, especially those who have been historically marginalized.

Collaborate with arts organizations and public agencies to use the arts to positively impact lives.

Serve at-risk youth, veterans, people who are institutionalized, and other special constituencies with arts initiatives.

Support arts initiatives to engage aging populations, providing life-long learning, increased social engagement, decreased loneliness and isolation, and improvements in health and memory loss.

Support the use of technology and innovation that strengthens the presentation of the arts and provides access to broader audiences.
Research, document, present and promote the state’s folk cultures in order to enhance knowledge and understanding.

Provide support for projects undertaken by communities to present traditional cultural expressions.

Help perpetuate the state’s rich cultural traditions through apprenticeship opportunities.

Develop local, state and regional partnerships between appropriate groups such as the Alabama Folklife Association to more fully document and celebrate Alabama folk culture.

Provide high-level state recognition to folk artists whose work has kept traditions alive and been a credit to their communities and the state.

Support traditional folk artists in teaching their skills and promoting their artistry through increased access to technology and marketing resources.

Develop multi-state partnerships to facilitate programming and support related to cultural regions that go beyond state boundaries.

Identify and assist venues to present Alabama’s diverse folk artists as well as folk traditions from other states and countries.

Encourage and support creative cultural expressions of new immigrant communities in Alabama.

Aid in the presentation of Alabama traditional artists outside of the state through agencies such as the Smithsonian Institution, the National Council for the Traditional Arts, and the American Folklife Center.

Ensure preservation of and access to research materials on Alabama folklife in partnership with the Archive of Alabama Folk Culture at the Alabama Department of Archives and History.

Showcase and promote folk cultures in Alabama through multiple forms of media.
